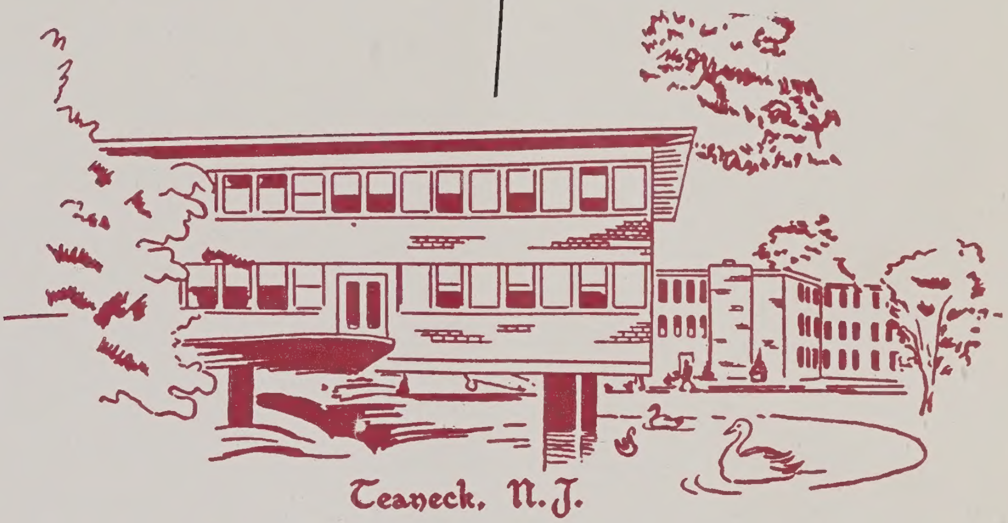
Rutherford, N. J.

Fairleigh Dickinson University



Teaneck, N. J.

Florham-Madison, N. J.

To those who still hold the conviction that the future lies gloriously before them, we dedicate this book. When the vanquished among us forecast the inevitability of our world's destruction, these men and women refuse to believe them.

To those among us who look forward with anticipation, not fear, to the challenge of the space age, and who know that in spite of the missiles and hydrogen bombs, that the strongest force on earth today, as it has been throughout history, is love.

To the visionaries who still believe that the dignity of man is more than a phrase, but rather an inherent manifestation of nature.

To those who believe these things, and have the courage to perpetrate their beliefs, we dedicate this book.

Robert Meyerson

Dedication

We Will Always Remember

With a smile and a gentle note of nostalgia, we leave Fairleigh Dickinson. In four years we have learned many things. The education so carefully given us will never be forsaken. The books read, the papers written, even the class notes will find fruition as we emerge—the graduate!

The many friends made will help sustain us in the future. We have learned what Fairleigh Dickinson teaches so well: Friendship is a valuable thing! And in its new-found bigness, Fairleigh still provides a "Hello" for everyone it meets.

To list the memories we carry with us is unnecessary. We shall recall our four years often. But we shall all remember many diverse things, combined, all of which is Fairleigh Dickinson.

The passage of time will inevitably erase the vitality of these years; they will ebb into that which is memory—never to be forgotten . . .

We will never forget these events

A Year Has Many Moods...

A Roaring Twenties Dance stirs the enthusiasm of activity.

Sports add Excitement to our year.

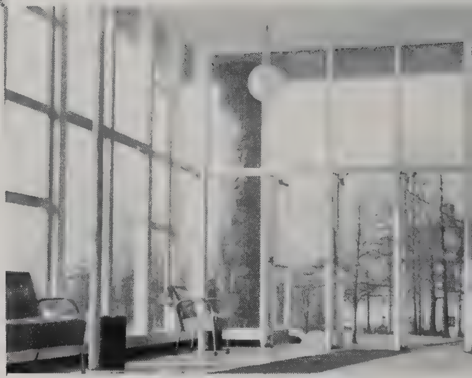
Each student experiences a myriad of moods during the year . . . The confusion of registration until a familiar face is seen in the long line . . . The anticipation of going to new classes and meeting new professors . . . the hasty coffee break with a special someone invariably interrupted by glances at texts . . . the hard work of after-school rehearsals . . . the happiness of meeting friends in the Commons or on the lawn. . . The excitement of participating in clubs and sports . . . the worry before a big test . . . the sigh of relief when it's all over . . . the bustling of school activity as the term draws to a close . . . the anxiety of finals . . . and the mixed feeling of gladness and nostalgia as the year too quickly ends.



Contentment is found in the stability of buildings.

The greatest Happiness is realized in friendship.

Solitude Sought But Seldom Found. .

To be alone with one's own thoughts—this is sometimes desired but difficult to achieve. The days are so filled with voices and knowledge to be absorbed—the moment of solitude is all too often forsaken and you are enveloped in the world of others foregoing your oneness to stand as a group.

But when the day is slowly leaving, you may take time to assimilate new thoughts, investigate that which you have learned, and incorporate this knowledge into yourself.

In the quiet of the fading light, you can find solitude. Only now can you recall the yesterday, live the now, and renew hope for the tomorrow.

That dismal feeling

dampening our spirits...

. . . caused us some unhappy moments and black thoughts. Low hanging clouds announcing an onslaught of rain, whistling winds, unnatural darkness . . . all added a dreary aspect to our lives. While the weather set the stage, other incidents caused our depression. There were days when nothing seemed to go right. Perhaps we started the morning by oversleeping; we suffered through an unannounced quiz, returned at noon to find we had received no mail. To make things worse, we were refused for a date. Now these dismal events trouble us but, in the future we will rarely recall them without a chuckle. A soothing memory will kindly soften the experiences of uncertainty and melancholy that we all have known at some time during our college life.

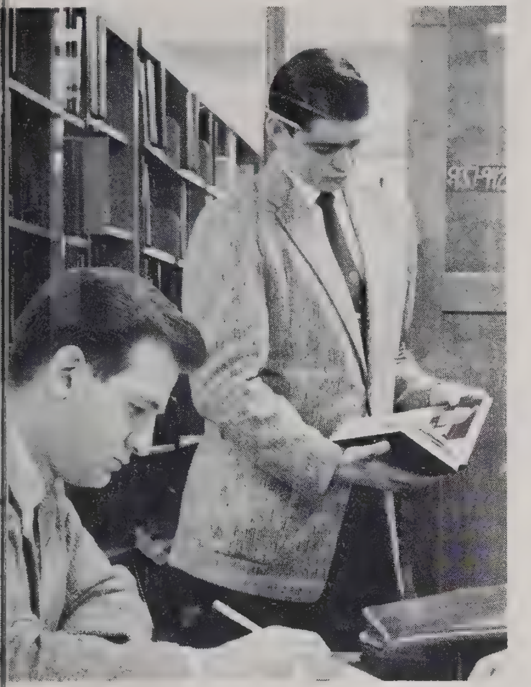
A Monday morning nine o'clock class often seemed the plight of the unknowing freshman and an absolute necessity for the graduation-conscious senior.

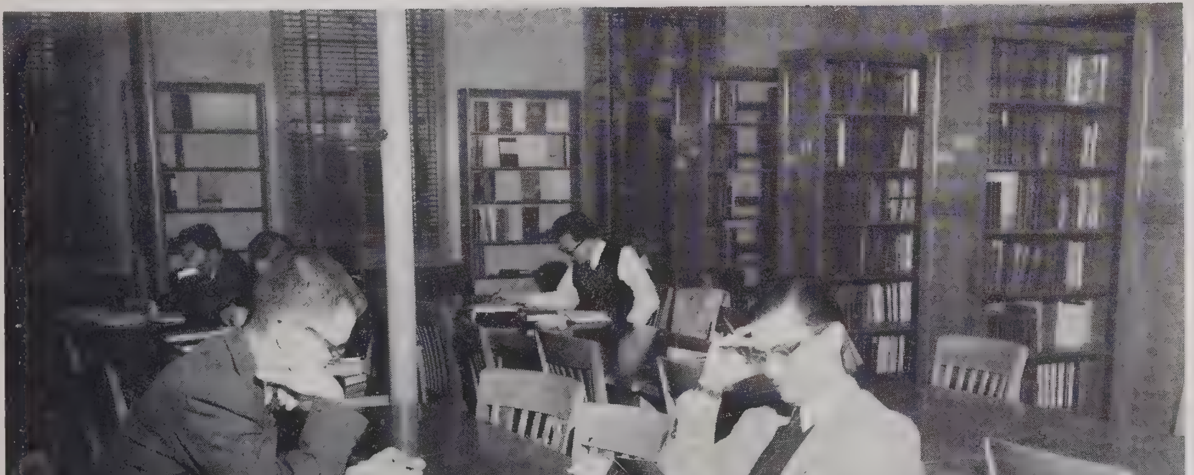
Those six warning slips were such a shock that . . .

A seriousness prompting study

The turbulent, unpredictable years in whch we live cause us to wonder how we shall view today in later years. These times have been ones of contrast: historical, dramatic, exciting, yet monotonous; evoluntionary and revolutionary; traditional and modern, dynamic enough to frighten us, yet static enough to make us impatient. And above all, we wonder about the coming years, years when we shall try to realize our futures. But the future seems to be a contradiction, a daydream for security shadowed by the nightmares of hydrogen bombs, sputniks and the cold war which seems to be growing warmer.

To prepare for our destinies, we sought and shall seek education. We learn and expand our thinking in order to insure the places we soon shall take in the world of tomorrow.





And Then We Danced...

After the ball was over . . .

Enhancing the activities of each social season are the various Knight club dances and formals. Many of the parties had a touch of the past. All week chairmen and committees decorated drab gyms converting them into cafes or bohemian dens. When the weekend came, we arrived at the dances. Stealing on to the campus late Sunday afternoon, an exciting atmosphere lingers until sometime Monday, leaving in its wake completed events, dates to be remembered and memories to be relived in the future recollections of a college student.

Return To School

RETURN TO SCHOOL—the three words always bring varied responses. For some, it means the newness of college, complete with campus guides and maroon beanies. Truly, for the freshman, registration and hazing bring a strange aura of expectation and excitement.

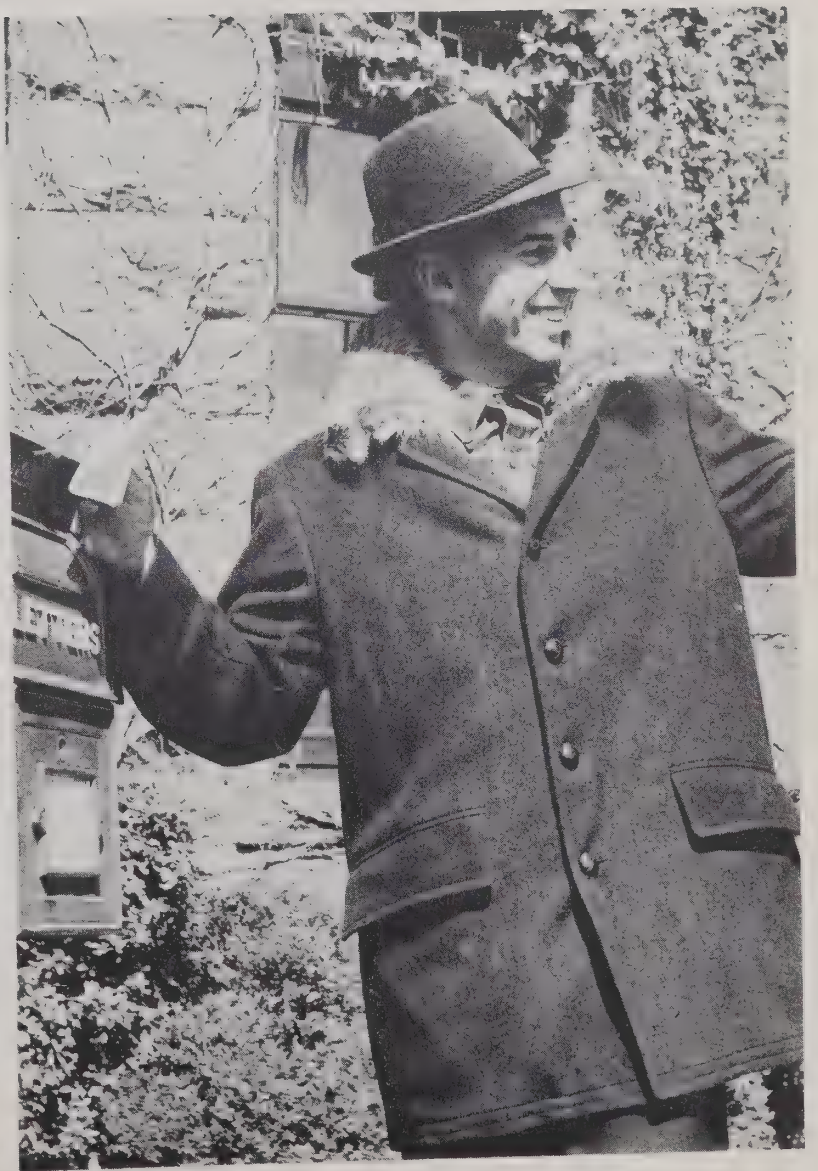
For others, well-seasoned to college life, the return to school means an end to summer pleasures, fading sun-tans, and the "grind of education." Old friends, cigarette smoke, class cards, schedule changes, term papers, text books . . . so the cycle begins anew.

It's September and the tap of knowledge will run strong until that ever-so-far-away summer vacation.

Freshman hazing is in full swing as their voices blend in singing the alma mater.

"It says so right here . . . 'our 3 o'clock class is in Fairbanks, Alaska'."

Autumn In The Air



September, Labor Day, leaves blushing, frost, and the return to Academic pursuits; these are the marks of Autumn. For the student it means renewing old friendships, going through the hectic rounds of schedule confirmation and then sitting back, at least for a while, to enjoy those brief sessions of relaxation found at college in picnics where faculty and students put down their books and take up the wiener skewer or release tensions by vicariously participating in sports.

Varieties...

"There's no business like show business" and truer words were never spoken according to the talented students coming out to perform and work for the University variety shows. Nowhere else could they meet so many people, get such a happy feeling than from their own amateur show world.

Studies, sleep and dates gave way to practice for the Varieties. When the curtain went up, we witnessed an excellent display of student talent featured in group acts and solos. These shows illustrated that we are capable of producing an excellent amateur show. When the curtain came down, the industrious participants were happy knowing that their show was a big job very well done, while those of us in the audience were stimulated to work harder so that next year our act might be among the ones chosen.

Finishing touches expertly added.

Haven't thought this hard in months.

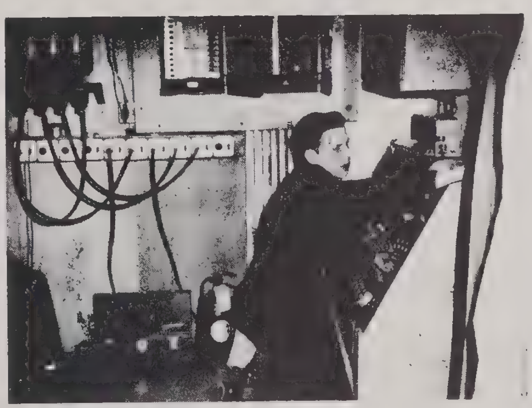
University players present

the best in shows...

One of the oldest groups in the University, The Play Production Group has endeavored always, to bring fine entertainment to the students. There have been many memorable productions in past years including "Dear Brutus" and "The Hasty Heart." This year's High Tor, by Maxwell Anderson, marked a new apex for the Group. It is doubtful that this presentation can be rivalled by even their next greatest production. Shakespeare said "the play's the thing" and the Play Production group has been proving it for a long time.

"And there we were at 10,000 feet."

The Rutherford Play Production group presented "You Can't Take It With You" in 1958, a comedy about an eccentric family.



Wendell Warr contributed much to lighting effects.

Convocation and Culture

Convocation, an integral part of Fairleigh Dickinson's cultural program has afforded us many worthwhile programs. This past year we heard such notables as Louis Untermeyer, famed poet. Always, the University Convocation is worked out in order to broaden the students scope and enlighten his thinking.

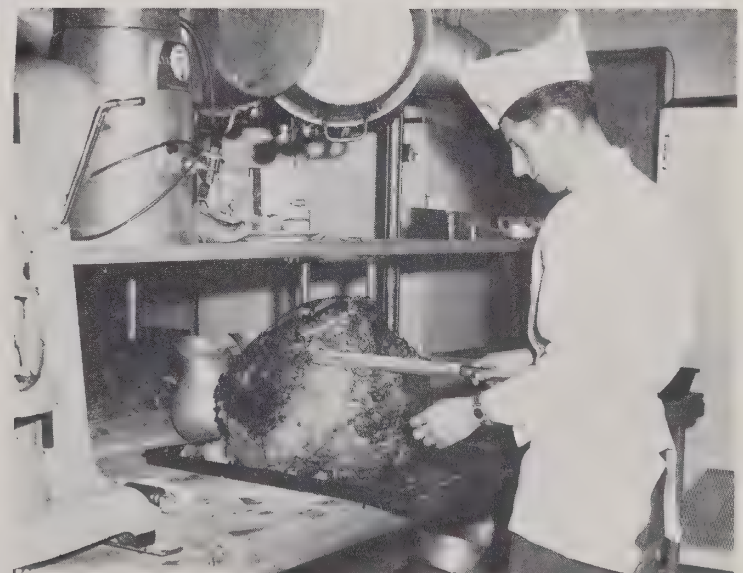
Candlelight Dinner

The Candelight Dinner is one of the most delightful treats during the year. It is prepared primarily by the students in the School of Hotel Management. The delicious food would appeal to even the fussiest gourmet. Every aspect of the dinner from the table setting down to the mammoth roast and the sweet dessert is carefully and expertly prepared. Not only can these students, cook and serve, but they are certainly gracious hosts and hostesses.



Christmas Time . . .

Snow fell and spirits rose as the week before Christmas vacation arrived. Although we were approaching another round of tests, the holiday season tended to make us minimize the importance of grades. With the many events taking place on campus, we had hardly time to finish our Christmas shopping before we joined in laughing groups to entertain orphaned children or participate in the Christmas show.

In our humble way, we tried to send forth a beam of joy and friendship.

The winter was long and cold at good old Fairleigh Dickinson, but we, her industrious students, paid no mind. The cold north wind was biting as we plodded through snow on the way to class. Spring was still to come; yet the weekends left no problem: we left our books to enjoy the winter wonderland. We fought off our finals, weathered winter storms, and waited patiently for June.

Winter Snows Fell

We inched our way through thirty foot drifts to conquer some ski slope.

Senior faculty game

As usual, the games provided us with thrills, chuckles, and some anguish as the faculty went all out to win. At Rutherford, Dr. Sanhusen attempted to sweep the Seniors off the court while the Teaneck faculty unleashed their new secret weapon, Dr. McCormick. The game was in doubt until the last seconds when Dick Lenk swished a free throw from the foul line to tie the game and preserve tradition.

Formal

The Senior Formal was held during the Christmas vacation. The setting was the Westmount Country Club in West Paterson. Truly, a more elegant setting could not have been found. The music was furnished by Les and Larry Elgart and we all could have "danced all night".

The formal was well-attended by Seniors, as well as many others. The Christmas spirit was apparent in all the guests and the gay festivities added to the enjoyment of those who attended.

Fine food, good music and high spirits created the proper atmosphere for a very memorable evening.

As a dance sponsored by the Senior Class, the Christmas Formal will be one of the most pleasant memories of the past four years.

Honorary degrees

At chapel exercises, Fairleigh Dickinson University awarded honorary Doctor of Law degrees to five men. Those receiving the degrees were Ezra Taft Benson, United States Secretary of Agriculture; John W. Anderson, Commodore of the United States Lines' fleet; Leonard Carmichael, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Benjamin A. Cohen of Chile, Ambassador Delegate to the General Assembly of the United Nations; and Dr. William Carlos Williams, poet, essayist, short story writer and playwright.

The citations were given by Dr. Peter Sammartino, president of the university. Following the awarding of the degrees a response was given by Secretary Benson.

Education—the key word of knowledge—the purpose of four years of college. And yet often during these years the desire comes to leave the books unopened—let the homework remain undone. Perhaps it's Spring Fever in November or starting Easter vacation three weeks early. Whatever the reason, it is a certainty that the "goof-off" period inevitably must come to the college student.

And though it may appear that the learning process stops altogether, it goes on. It is impossible to live a day without learning something whether one learns the advantages of the open road in the spring or a ski-trail in the winter—it is all an integral part of living, growing, and developing. So the days of unguided education are not wasted. They help keep the equilibrium in the individual and allow him to go back to his studies with a new out-look and a wider perspective.

Legislative affairs conference held

The student government of Fairleigh Dickinson University was host to the New Jersey United States National Student Association's member universities at the Legislative Affairs Conference. The delegation representing state and privately endowed institutions approved a three-point resolutions upon the following prevalent issues:

1). Federal Aid to Education . . . Student opinion held that the subversive clause was pointless and in direct opposition to the "principles of academic freedom," and therefore should be stricken.

2). State Aid to Education . . . The New Jersey Region of USNSA backed the effort of all organizations attempting to acquire increased state aid for higher education.

3). Segregation . . . The students stressed the need of presenting objective material, i.e., both pro's and con's. The Student governments were asked to lead panel discussions, lectures, news publicity and general programming in an effort to bring the issues to the attention of the New Jersey student.

Complete with entrance, procession, and introduction, the Cotillion is fondly remembered long after the applause dies and the music fades.

Graduation called

Shouts of congratulations filled the air. With a jolt we now realize that we have graduated . . . we are alumni. Although we are indeed eager to prove ourselves in the future, we grow wistful as we survey the familiar landmarks at Fairleigh Dickinson University. Some of us will be able to revisit them time again while others of us will be able to revisit only in memory of the past. Still, we all of us have our own special memories, both pleasant and sad, to remind us of our four years at FDU. The four years at one time seemed so far ahead in the future. When you look at time ahead, it seems so distant and, yet, when you look at time past it seems as though the years fly.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, the voice of Fairleigh Dickinson student functions with authority and success in Rutherford, Teaneck, and Madison.

The group's primary purpose is to pass upon all matters regarding student affairs, to define and interpret the interests of the student body and co-ordinate these with the educational objectives of the university.

By providing the students with a direct knowledge of activities, policies and decisions, the Student Council stimulates interest, establishes a spirit of co-operation, fosters good fellowship and good will. They constantly initiate beneficial and worth-while projects geared to the betterment of the student body and the university.

Rutherford Student Council

William Mielcke, President of the Rutherford Student Council has spent an active and industrious four years at Fairleigh Dickinson. He played a key role on the Student Union Committee, was his Junior Class Representative, and headed this year, not only the Student Council, but the Maroon Key Society as well.

During his administration, the Student Council has instituted many things, including the Leadership Training Program, hereby newly elected members learn parliamentary procedure and public speaking, and the Student Discount Service, providing students with a discount when shopping in Rutherford.

Bill Mielcke has served as President of the Rutherford Student Council with directed purpose, insight and success.

Teaneck Student Council

The Teaneck Student Council this year has enjoyed the capable leadership of two responsible young men.

In September, the Council functioned under the able leadership of Sal Parisi. Under his guidance, the organization performed as a precision unit. Upon Sal's graduation, the presidential reins were turned over to Don Miller.

The trust and good faith placed in Don has proven well-founded. Once again the Council leadership went to steady hands. The students at Teaneck can be proud of both presidents. And Sal Parisi and Don Miller can accept our thanks for a job well done.

Traveling fellowships have been awarded at Fairleigh Dickinson University to University Vice President Clarence R. Decker, and twelve members of the Social Science faculty. Faculty members who will make the trip are (left to right—Seated: Dr. Bogdan Raditsa, Dr. Sidney Kronish, Dr. Decker, Dr. Nasrollah Fatemi; Standing: Herbert Gutman, Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, Dr. Heinz Mackensen, Dr. Samuel Pleasants, Dr. Kuan I. Planning and Organizing

The Fairleigh Dickinson University Board of Trustees appropriated $36,000 to finance travel and study next summer by 12 faculty members in several "basic areas" of the world.

A group of nine professors will study in Russia, Africa and the Near East. The others will study as a unit in the Far East.

The tours will be under the direction of Dr. Clarence R. Decker, the university's academic vice-president, who will travel with the larger unit. He said that the purpose of the project is to obtain direct knowledge of conditions in key areas, which will be applied en route to revising the university's course in Contemporary Society.

Each of the 12 professors participates in teaching the course, which is required of all students at the university.

The traveling professors will also make a particular effort to grasp the image of America as seen by the various peoples of the world.

The trip will be entirely by air. The professors, whose expenses will be fully paid, will be entitled to bring their wives at their own expense.

Members of the unit will separate for individual studies in each country visited, coming together from time to time for seminars. They prepared for the trips through special studies during the spring semester, culminating in a briefing in Washington by State Department experts.

The larger group will study in Russia, Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Egypt, The Sudan, Nigeria, Ghana, Liberia and French West Africa. The other contingent will spend time in India, Pakistan, Thailand, Indonesia, Korea and Japan.

Mrs. Peter Sammartino, Fairleigh Dickinson University Director of Admissions, and Dr. Nasrollah S. Fatemi (seated) confer with the ten Fairleigh Dickinson students who participated in the University Model United Nations at McGill University in Montreal. Those who made the trip were (left to right, standing) John Kirwan of Newark, Mildred Brennan of Fairlawn, Valerie Secor of Westfield, John Tilley of Convent Station, Basir Younoszai of Afghanistan, Carol Paris of Nutley, Omar Rasuli of Afghanistan, Willoughby Farr of Edgewater. Fairleigh Dickinson University joined with 41 American universities, 17 Canadian universities, and student groups from Israel and Ireland in a University Model United Nations held February 4 to 7 in Montreal, Canada. Ten Fairleigh Dickinson students and one professor, Dr. Nasrollah S. Fatemi, participated. One of the two keynote speeches was given by Dr. Fatemi.

Students from the various universities represented many different countries of the United Nations in the debates of the Model General Assembly, Security Council, and International Court of Justice. Proceedings were at the University of Montreal.

Five of the Fairleigh Dickinson students acted as representatives of the Dominican Republic, and the other five represented Afghanistan. Valerie Secor of Westfield was chairman of the Dominican Republic group, with Grant Taplin of Nanuet, N. Y., as secretary. Other members of that group were John Kirwan of Newark, Keith Parker of England, and Willoughby Farr of Edgewater.

Basir Youngoszai was press spokesman for the delegation representing Afghanistan. Chairman of the delegation was John Tilley of Convent Station, and other members were Carol Parish of Nutley, Mildred Brennan of Fairlawn, and Omar Rasuli, also a student from Afghanistan.

This project was organized by students of McGill University, the University of Montreal, Sir George Williams College, and Loyola College, with Zafar Khan of McGill as chairman.

To make the project as realistic as possible, diplomats from Ottawa and New York assisted students in formulating the policies of the countries they are representing. In addition, a system of simultaneous translation allowed students to express themselves in any of the five languages of the United Nations.

Inter-Club Council–Teaneck

Theirs is not a light task! As representatives of all the clubs on the campus, they must attain that common meeting ground where all have an equal voice in its functioning.

Theater Arts Society

The Theatre Arts Society, a new organization on the campus, consists of a group of students who are eager to enrich their dramatic abilities and provide the student body and faculty with an introduction to drama as expected in the cultured traditions of Fairleigh Dickinson University. That they will be successful is almost a foregone conclusion when their varied program is considered. This enthusiastic society will present variety shows consisting of scenes, sequences, and musical interludes from contemporary Broadway musicals, as well as Broadway plays in their entirety and original sketches.

Mathematics Club

Rutherford & Teaneck

The combined forces of the Rutherford and Teaneck campuses comprise the Mathematics Club. These students are resigned to the admirable task of increasing their mathematical knowledge. Under the guidance of Mr. Lipslutz, the club's activities consist of discussion, group resolution of difficult problems and theories, and mastery of extremely complex and significant figures.

Foreign Students

One of Fairleigh Dickinson's most unique and individual organization is for foreign students. As we have a large enrollment of students from various countries, the clubs on both campuses demonstrate an understanding and increased interest for the betterment of international relations.

Through lectures, discussions, and forums, students have the opportunity to contrast and compare their cultural and social patterns. In this way they gain new ideas and an enlarged perspective allowing all of us to become better citizens of the world.

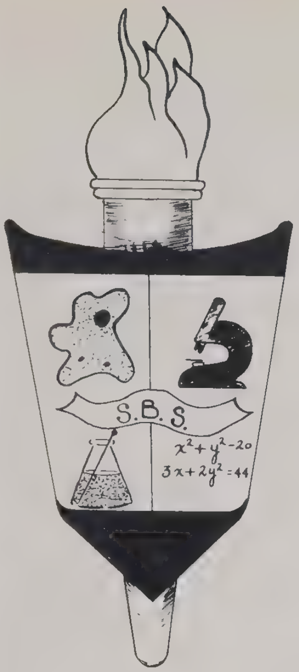
CLUB



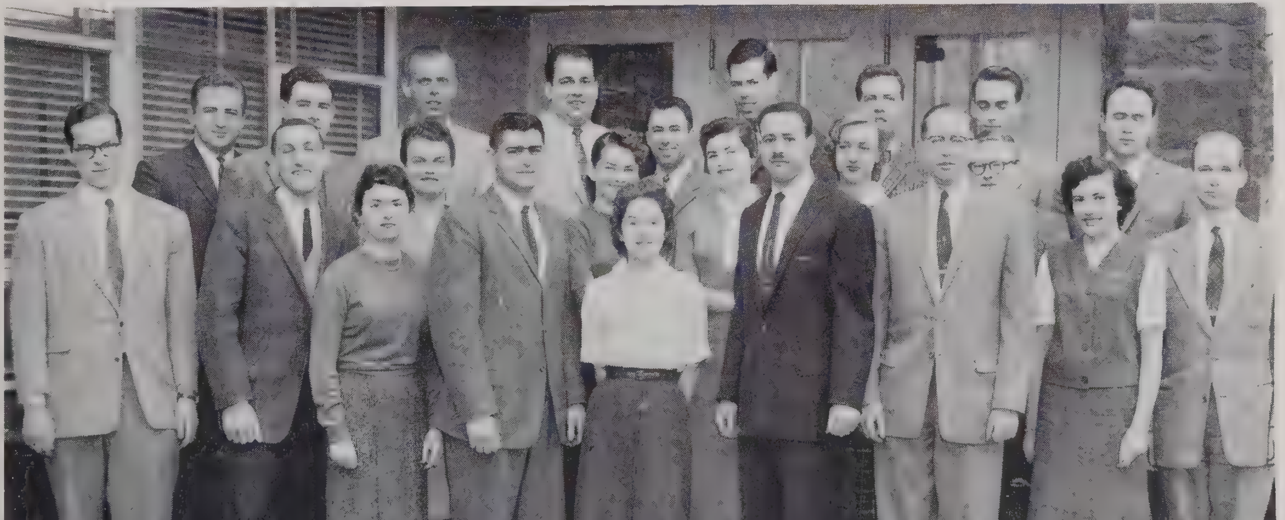
Biology Clubs–Rutherford & Teaneck

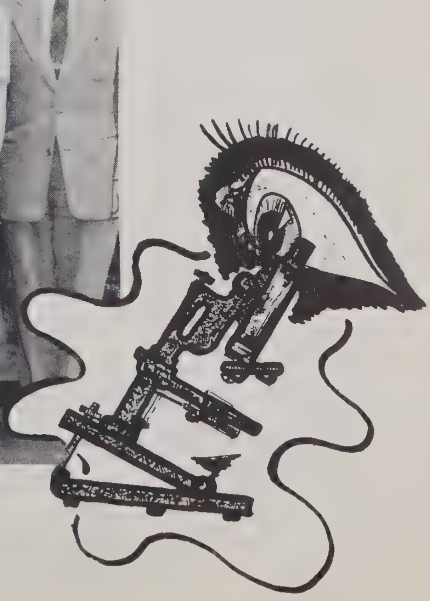
Both Rutherford and Teaneck boast clubs dedicated to the increased awareness of Biology as a major science.

In Teaneck, the Society of Biological Sciences has engaged primarily in work for the Biology Department. It has also conducted club projects, heard speakers, and gone on many field trips. Many social events are included in their activities such as their successful dinner dance in January.

In Rutherford, the Biology Research Organization devotes itself to microscopic study, extensive discussions, speakers and research. Also, this group spends much time on field trips where they can attain first hand information.

These organizations are intensely interested in their field of study and do stimulating, productive work.





Veterans Club

The Veteran's Club, originally founded as a loosely organized social function of veterans, has matured through the years into an enterprising group dedicated to service for the school. This organization has sponsored off-campus affairs in a mature manner, promoted intra-mural sports, and is at present attempting to adopt a less fortunate child in Europe throuh the Foster-Parent Plan. A group of this caliber is a definite advantage to any university and the student body takes pride in proclaiming this organization as ours.

Psychology Club
Join

"EGO?" "ID?" and "FREUD" are familiar terms to the members of the Psychology Club. Functioning separately on both the Teaneck and Rutherford campuses, the club constantly strives for increased psychological knowledge. Guest speakers, eminent psychologists, and enlighting discussions help facilitate student learning.

The prime objectives of the group are to advance the science of psychology, to encourage scholarship, and to prepare members for graduate study in their field.

Psychology Clubs

Circle K–Teaneck

One of the most successful service organizations, the Circle "K", a Teaneck group, concentrates on human relationships with the emphasis on citizenship and the development of leadership skills, and ability. Under the inspiration and sponsorship of the Teaneck Chapter of the Kiwanis International, the Circle "K" has never ceased to be an asset to its community and a credit to its university.

Hotelmen's Association

The Hotelmen's Association of Fairleigh Dickinson University is established to provide the students of the Hotel and Restaurant Management curriculum with a social and professional organization. The aim of this Association is to provide good will and understanding between the Administration of the University, the faculty, and the students of the Hotel and Restaurant course.

Under the advisorship of Mr. Paul E. Gillette, the membership is limited to the students of the Hotel and Restaurant Management curriculum and the present enrollment is seventy-five.

Legal Societies

John Marshall Society Rutherford

The club's purpose is to provide its membership with a greater respect and appreciation of the ideals of order and justice, while attempting to further student interest in the legal profession.

The John Marshall Society has a varied schedule of activities including debates, moot court trials and guest speakers, including Professor Ferguson of Rutgers Law School, and Professors Dollar, Catina and Miener of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

Pre-Law Club Teaneck

These students find the preparation for law careers further enhanced by membership in this club.

Their programs include guest speakers, visits to courts and films concerned with law. Trying always to further their knowledge, this club is an active organization.

Debating Society

The human voice when conveying personal opinion is indeed a monumental instrument. The Debating Club members are always ready to argue and converse on any topic of interest.

Their discussions are heated and informative and take place on a moment's notice. Whether over coffee in the cafeor in formal meeting this club is always functioning with consistency and purpose.

The challenge of American Business and its unlimited possibilities have been clearly understood by Fairleigh Dickinson business students.

In preparing for their future, they seek to further equip themselves for the world of business by organizing a society to advance not only their academic, but practical knowledge too.

Through discussions of important issues, a variety of speakers and many other diverse activities, they are preparing to emerge into the business world, as well educated and well rounded men.

Society for the Advancement of Management

Maroon Key Societies–Teaneck & Rutherford

Functioning on both campuses, the Maroon Key Society is a noble organization which is a constant, active service group.

Their activities are unlimited: greeting guest dignitaries, fostering public relations, supporting and executing philanthropic endeavors as well as an intense and thriving social calendar.

The Maroon Key Society is a young organization which boasts a strong and esteemed existence.

Production Engineers Rutherford

This group is composed of students who, realizing the vastness and variety in their field, have determined to become "top-notch" engineers. With a serious, enlightened attitude, they prepare themselves for the future. The facets of engineering are unlimited, potential jobs plentiful. Through their organization, they keep actively in touch with new developments, new discoveries and new positions in the ever-growing world of the engineer.

Rocket Society Teaneck

ROCKET
SOCIETY

Through many experiments and constant discussion, the Rocket Club displays an avid interest in the world of satellites and outer space.

This is just another organization at Fairleigh Dickinson University which exhibits the growing and increasing interest of the students in every facet of learning and awareness.

The world today is vitally concerned with the conquest of outer space. The Fairleigh Dickinson University Rocket Club is making its contribution too.

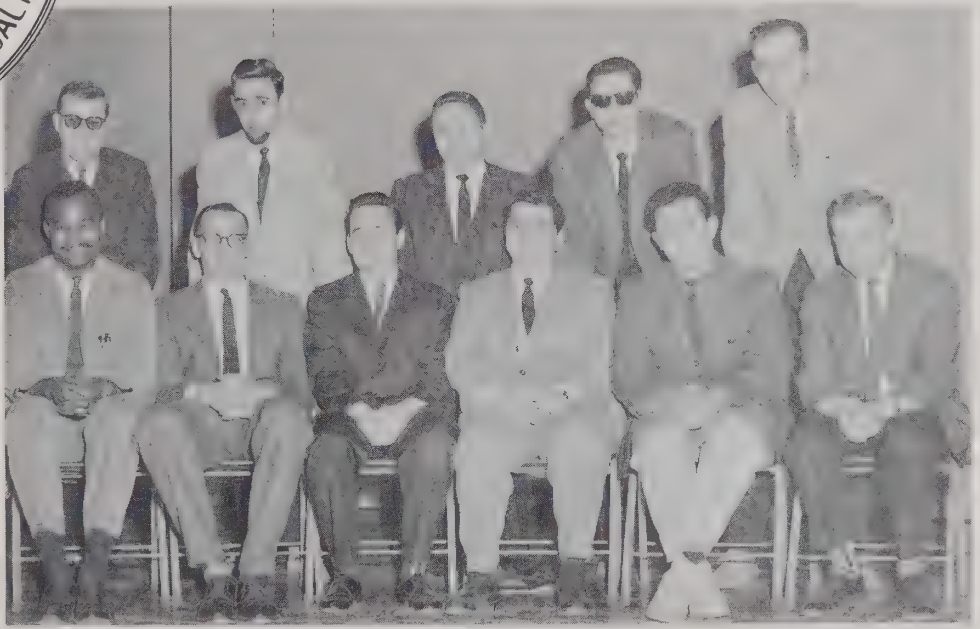
Advertising Club

The Advertising Club is one of the new organizations on the campus. The ultimate goal of these campus men in "gray flannel suits" is to affiliate themselves with a Madison Avenue concern and establish an Advertising Agency at Fairleigh Dickinson.

In the future, they plan to affiliate themselves with Alpha Delta Sigma, a professional advertising fraternity. In this way they will build up their contacts and knowledge of advertising outside the classroom.

LINQUISTIC-UNIVERSALIS

Jazz Club



Devotees of the smooth sounds, this group finds the pursuit of modern music most rewarding. When not lending an ear to records, they search out haunts where they can continue to engage in their favorite diversion.

Formed in January, this group is growing fast and promises to become a leading campus organization.

American Chemical Society

The chemistry department on each of the campus's is constantly striving for the future development of its students. The American Chemical Society functions as a group interested in the fascinating world of test-tubes, formulas and experiments

Electronics Club

Teaneck

The new and exciting world of electronics is the topic of study and information of this club. Its members take a deep interest in their field and work constantly to become more familiar and more proficient in their world. The boundries in electronics are unlimited and the members of the Electronics Club are expanding their horizon.

Society for the Advancement of Science

ΣΑΣ

In these days of increased scientific furor, is is indeed a tribute to Fairleigh Dickinson's students that a club dedicated to the advancement of science exists, and has existed for many years.

These students have been aware of the importance of scientific study and have never ceased to take an active and vital part in their project.

Ski Club

Many of the men and women who brave the snow-covered ski-slopes of Stowe, Bel-Air and even Quebec, Canada, more likely than not are members of the Fairleigh Dickinson Ski Club.

Armed with all the necessary equipment, these daring souls take off on most winter week-ends and indulge in their favorite sport.

Their sport is certainly one of the most stimulating and dangerous. But regardless of all dangers, the Ski-Club is one of the most active on the campus.

This organization was founded in 1957. It was intended to further the intramural athletic program, promote good sportsmanship and provide a source of recreation for the members. Through the years it has branched out and now plays outside matches with other colleges and table tennis clubs. Along with the regular table tennis activities members of the club have formed teams and entered other fields of competition in intramural sports.

Table Tennis Association

Varsity F

The Varsity "F" Club is composed solidly of men who have won a varsity letter in a college sport.

Among the club's activities is, of course, the varsity "F" show. This year's production, "The Girl Friend," broke all records of any University theatrical endeavor. The club also plays host to various orphans at basketball games and sports events.

The Varsity "F" endeavors culminate at the end of each year, with a dinner for the school's athletes, honoring them for their contributions to Fairleigh Dickinson.

Nightingale Club

The crisp, antiseptic white, of the uniform, the ever-present smile, these identify the Nightingdales. These girls have chosen to become the "healers of the sick;" the doctor's right hand.

Theirs is indeed an admirable task. By working in hospitals, and utilizing every opportunity to increase their medical skill and knowledge, these future nurses are a constant group, constantly in action.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Social Science Club

A welcomed new-comer to our family of organizations, the Social Science Club has maintained full and varied programs since its inception. Some of their meetings have included guest speakers, field trips to business and clinical research centers, and a variety of interesting films.

The future promises continued growth and further success for this interest group.

Chess Club

Concentration—that is the byword of the men who indulge in the age-old game of chess. Utilizing skill and acute mental coolness the players solemnly move each chess-man with assuredness and confidence. Silence reigns supreme during a chess game, each player meditates, calculates and methodically plans his line of attack. And after each move has been made the smile of relief and the sigh of consternation breaks through. . . The game goes on.

Accounting

One of the constants of the world is "income tax". The members of the Accounting Club have realized the tremendous field they plan to enter and are doing all in their power to become experts in their field. By meeting as a well-organized group, these men have the opportunity to investigate all that the profession of accounting has to offer.

Kingsland Society

This informal group, composed of students and faculty, gather informally under the guidance of Dr. Gerald Willen. The emphasis is on philosophy and the philosophic approach to the arts.

Their discussions, debates and guest speakers, never fails to stimulate large attendance, and most important, a varsity of sound, intelligent opinions.

Tri-Campus Federation

This year saw the inception of an important organization, the Tri-Campus Federation. Representatives from the three Student Councils, and the presidents of each class compose the executive board. Its primary purpose is to co-ordinate all social affairs and discuss and resolve intra-campus problems which arise.

The Federation is not a policy-making group, but rather integrates the three campuses, so that Rutherford, Teaneck, and Madison may function as a well organized university.

With the growth and development of Fairleigh Dickinson, the Tri-Campus Federation was a most needed factor which will facilitate the student governing and planning on all three campuses.

And the deadline girl—our Editor-in-Chief
Found no rest and no sign of relief
But worked and watched with eyes of blue
As her Castlelight baby expanded and grew
We worked all night, we worked all day
We even worked on Saturday
And for those who were inquisitors
We had "open house" for visitors
Easily—Adroitly—with no sign of Terror
We greeted Dr. Sammartino and Miss Albera
And when they saw all they could see
We all sat down and had some tea
We were undaunted and worked with might
And put to press the Castlelight
Our task completed left us with anticipation

THE BULLET

of Fairleigh Dickinson Universit

Rutherford

The campus newspaper of Fairleigh Dickinson University, published twice each month, keeps us informed on campus events and all interesting and important happenings related to our university.

The Bulletin and its staff, under the able guidance of Martin Gansberg, constantly strives for accurate, well-written news stories and colorful feature articles.

These people have the great responsibility of reporting the news. They do their job with consistant efficiency and the final product is one of merit.

The Bulletin is a credit to its staff and a notable addition to our university.

The Castle Ghost
Fairleigh Dickinson University

Striving always to maintain superior literary standards, the Castle Ghost staff spends an entire semester preparing the publication. The literary magazine, utilizing material contributed solely by university students, is published twice each year. The stories, poems, and articles reflect the attitudes of college people and reveal the creativity of its contributors.

The magazine is an unusual blending of serious, purposeful fiction plus satire, cartoons and outstanding poetry. The two editions this year contained many stories—all of which proved the enormous literary talents on the Fairleigh Dickinson Campus.

Administration

University's First Citizen . . . .

For eighteen years, Dr. Peter Sammartino has devoted himself to the promotion, development, and expansion of Fairleigh Dickinson. His interest in all facets of the university range from education to administration.

Dr. Sammartino has a vast and varied background which has enabled him to become proficient in his work. He did his undergraduate work at City College of New York and received his masters and doctorate degrees from New Yory University.

His philosophy emphasizes the importance of the student making the most of his college education, academically and culturally; thereby enriching his life and allowing him to make a worth-while contribution to society.

His busy schedule always allows time for student problems; his smile warm, his concern sincere, and his advise always sound.

As President of Fairleigh Dickinson University, Dr. Peter Sammartino has won the respect and administration of all who know him.

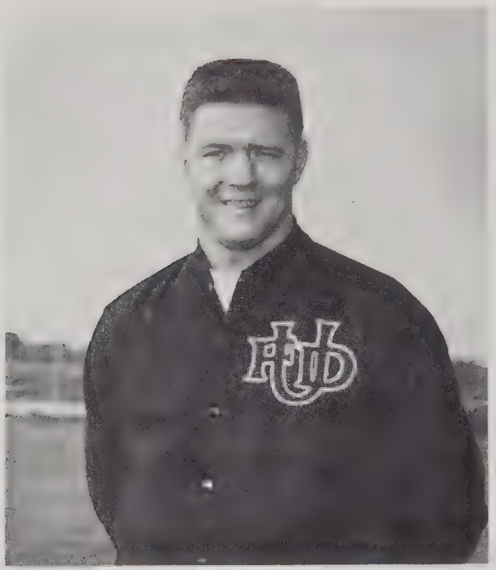
Soccer

After completing their regular-season schedule with a fine record of nine wins, one loss and one tie, the talent-laden Knights encountered a strong Pratt Institute team in the District 31 Championships.

In a contest marked by intense and ofttimes brilliant play they edged their rivals by the score of 2-1, to emerge as district champions. Leading the way were goalgetters Tony Brancato and Jan Birecki and goalie John Santos.



Coach George Glasgow

Winning nine and tying one of eleven contests in regular season competition, the soccer team compiled its finest record since becoming a varsity sport. Carrying its brilliant play to post-season competition, Coach George Glasgow's booters emerged as District 31 Champions besting a highly regarded Pratt Institute eleven in the title match.

The lone defeat of the year came at the hands of powerful Bridgeport University by a score of 5-0. It marked the only time throughout the entire season that a rival team scored more than three goals in one game. The tie came in an overtime duel with Newark College of Engineering.

Six team and two individual records were established during the season. Among them were: a season total of thirty-two goals on offense and an aggregate of only seventeen on defense. Twice during the year the Knights scored seven goals in one game establishing a new mark.

Nino Lupi and Tony Brancato were the individual stars, each completing his varsity career with a total of twenty-four goals. Goalie John Santos also shared in the laurels with his unyielding defensive work as he compiled a total of three shutouts.

Team captain Phil Kutt and regulars Frank Decker, Don Munro, Howie Krollfeifer, Hans Kleine and Tom Waring were others who stood out with their consistent play throughout the year.

The extent of the team's success, however, was achieved through the highly developed sense of team spirit which prevailed over each individual player.

Cross Country

This year's cross-country team posted the finest record of any harrier squad in the school's history, a 7-1 mark in dual meets. Under the first-year coaching of Walt Marusyn, the team scored wins over Newark College of Engineering, St. Peter's, Adelphi, Upsala, New Haven State Teachers and twice over Paterson State Teachers. The lone loss came to City College of New York.

The early-season outlook was not bright as Marusyn had only the minimum number of five men out for the team. These included seniors Kurt Bauermeister, Herb Beyer and Jim Young, and sophomores Charlie Buchanan and Bob Welenofsky. A mid-season boost was provided when two more second-year men, Gil Jordet and Ron Keenan, joined the team.

On October 31 the boys travelled to Syracuse where on the next day they ran in the Le Moyne Invitation Meet, finishing eighth.

The highlight of the season came on November 15 when the team finished third in the College Track Conference Championships, marking the first time that the Knights have brought back a trophy from this meet. Beyer finished seventh, Bauermeister thirteenth, while Buchanan, Welenofsky and Jordet were the other scoring runners.

Marusyn's big men were the two seniors. Beyer scored six wins and two second places in dual competition, and Bauermeister had four seconds, two thirds and two fourth-slot finishes.

Fairleigh Dickinson University's 1958-59 varsity basketball team was one of the best in the Knights highly successful court history registering 17 wins in 28 starts against the toughest schedule ever faced.

High point for Coach Dick Holub's quintet came when the Knights captured the District 31, National Athletic Intercollegiate Association championship and qualified for the national playoff at Kansas City, Missouri.

At Kansas City, Fairleigh Dickinson scored an opening round win over Culver Stockton of Canton, Missouri but were eliminated in the second round by Illinois Normal, 68-64.

The Knights registered seven wins in eight Tri-State Collegiate Basketball League starts, but lost the loop playoff to Adelphi, a regular season victim, 79-67.

The 1958-59 quintet was a well balanced team sporting five players with double figure averages. Connie Kaker, who was selected to play with the New Jersey collegiate all-star team in the Jersey City Armory at the end of the season, was the top average man with a mark of 14.1.

Coach Richard Holub

Although the Knights sensational scoring ace, Charles Potyrala, was slightly below par this season the little cager played a steady game for coach Holub. Potyrala finished the season with a respectable 12.7 average and his all around game improved.

Ted Kornegay the Knights 6′5″ center, combined with Connie Kaker led the Knights in the rebound department. Ted also finished the season, a close third to Potyrala with a 12.6 average.

Bob Brown, a sophomore sensation from New York, gave the Knight's the needed rebound strength for a successful season. Bob's return next season along with Potyrala, Unger and Munsch will be the nucleus of next year's quintet.

While not of the sensational type, the steady, game after game, effort of veterans Dick Gashler, John Walsh, John Quigley and Marty Munsch was also a big factor in the season's success.

Coach Bob Metz' squad, with only four seniors wrestling, had a rather lean year. The team managed to record three wins in a schedule that included some of the top teams around New York.

As expected, Erich Rudolph proved to be one of the toughest 147 lb. college matmen in the east. Undefeated in the metropolitan area, Rudolph suffered just one loss while winning eleven matches. Several of his victories came by pinning his opponent in less than three minutes.

Other boys with excellent records included: Bob Gras, 137 lb.—9 wins; heavyweight John Trieller—7 victories; Dan Pokotylo, 130 lb.—5 wins, and Ken Leenstra, 157 lb., who won four out of five matches.

Bowling

Competing for the first time as a varsity team, this year's keglers were in strong contention for Eastern Collegiate Bowling League honors.

The university, formerly represented on the alleys by a club, promoted the bowlers to varsity status before this past season. The wiseness of the move was amply proved by the team's success. It posted the highest single game total, 1025, and the highest three-game series, 2544. Both marks came against Fordham University.

Roy Langslet and Matt Marinan led the team. Langslet's average was well up in the 180's, while Marinan rolled a 245 game on one occasion and had the second highest league series, 634.

Others, who played important supporting roles on the squad, included team captain John Lucente, Nick Zazula, Mike Schimenti, Dick Schmitt and Marty Feinstein.

Baseball

With the loss of five veterans from last year's team, Coach Harvey Woods was rebuilding during the Knight's 1959 baseball season. Although the outlook was indefinite before the "play ball" call was heard, the mentor had a good number of players at all positions to choose from.

The squad was built around co-captains Phil Kutt and Ira Schwartz, and pitcher Frank Gilabert. Kutt and Schwartz both batted above .300 last year while Gilabert, a lefthander, sported an 8-1 mark.

Righthanders Bill Pollack, Bob Polst and John Takacs, along with southpaw Ed Strohmeyer, returned to back up Gilabert.

Schwartz, who set the one-year home-run record in 1958 with five round trippers, was in center field, and heavy-hitting Roy Langslet manned another outfield post. Kutt and Marty Munsch, both versatile performers, played in the infield.

A fine crop of sophomores, led by Pollack and first-baseman Tom McLean, came up in an effort to better the fine 1958 record of 16 and 7.

The Knights again competed in the Tri-State League. On the independent slate they opposed such top teams as Manhattan, Columbia, Seton Hall, Ithaca, Lehigh and Brandeis.

Track

The 1959 cindermen lost only three lettermen from the undefeated 1958 team. Thus in his first year as track coach, Walt Marusyn had a winning combination to work with.

All coaches feel the pressure that follows an undefeated year, but Marusyn was confident that he had the material necessary for another excellent season.

One of the major reasons for the coach's high hopes was the return of four scorers from last springs's Collegiate Track Conference Championships. Tracey Smith tied for first place in the pole vault, Herb Beyer scored a second in the two-mile, Jim Cassidy tied for fourth in both the broad jump and high hurdles and Bill McPheeters had the fifth best throw in the javelin.

The following men formed the backbone of this year's team: sprinters, Capt. Fred Voorhees and Al Smith; Quarter-milers Jules Zalon, Ron Keenan and Bob Welenofsky; half-milers Dave Wilson and Gil Jordet; mile and two-mile Beyer, Kurt Bauermeister and Charlie Buchanan.

Cassidy and Jim Reilly were the hurdlers, while McPheeters and Justin Footerman handled the weight events. Cassidy, A. Smith and Zalon were the leading broad and high-jumpers. T. Smith and McPheeters were the pole vaulters.

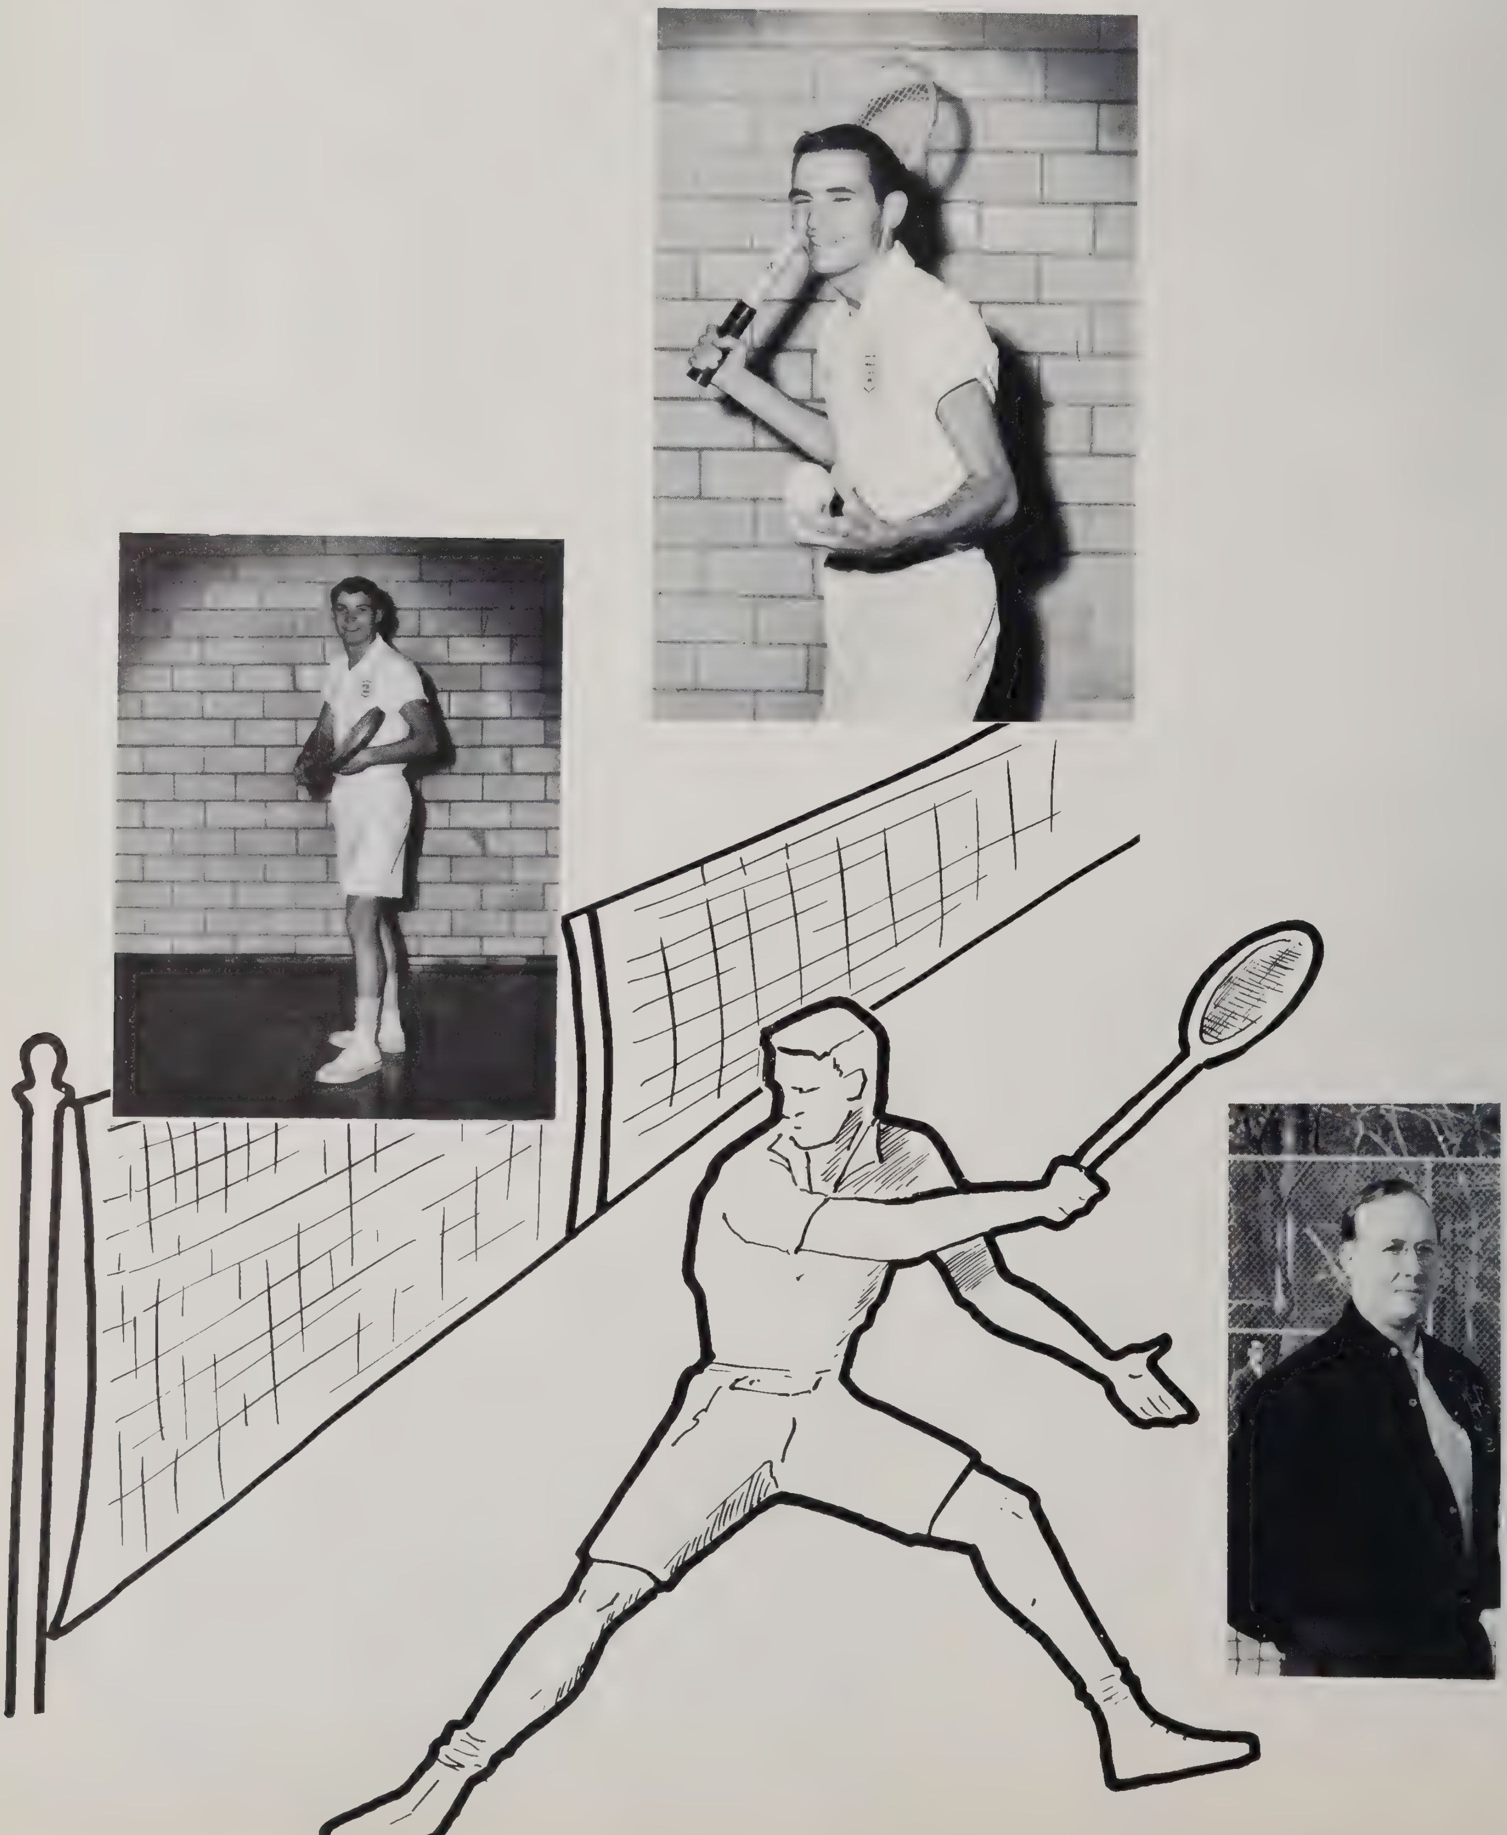
Tennis

Facing a year of rebuilding, Coach Vincent Anderson, with five returning veterans in his ranks, set out this season to improve the fortunes of his team. Lost from last year's squad through graduation were such notable performers as Bill Tengi, Tom Gracey, and Joe Guinta.

The team, which posted a dismal record of only one victory in nine matches in 1958 was regarded as highly promising. It was led by Ed Wolfman, Dan Pitera, Charlie Potyrala, Tom Waring and Manual Lopez, all of whom had seen previous experience.

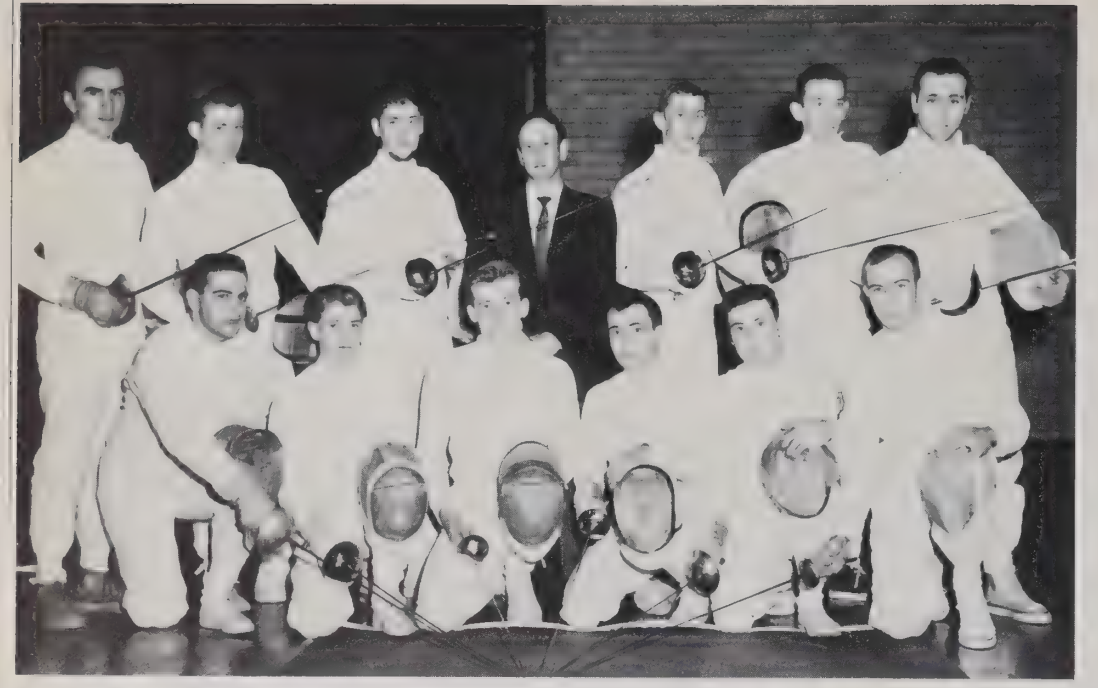


Golf

With only four lettermen returning from last year's team, Coach Robert Metz seemed to have a rebuilding job on his hands as the 1959 season opened. The returnees from the 1958 squad, which finished fifth in the Metropolitan Championships, are Capt. Ron Perry, Larry McClain, Bud Gaeta and Larry Reynolds.

Metz is looking for great things from McClain, who last year was the only metropolitan golfer to qualify in the National Championships, shooting a sensational 70. The coach feels that Gaeta is also capable of getting his game well under the 80 mark.

The other boys on whom Metz is counting are Walter Perog, Sal Merlo, Dick Schmidt, Hank Bushman and Al Noetzell.



Fencing

In spite of losing seven lettermen, Coach Pell Ringi put together one of the finest fencing teams the Knights have had.

Coach Ringi, a newcomer to Fairleigh's coaching staff, proved that his experience was a great asset to this year's squad.

Building the team around co-captains Nick Lombardi and Bob Tremolini, both masters of the foil, the coach was highly confident of finishing above the .500 mark. Such top teams as Cooper Union, Jersey City State Teachers, Fordham and Newark Rutgers were beaten by Ringi's outfit, which also made a fine showing in the N.C.E. Tournament.

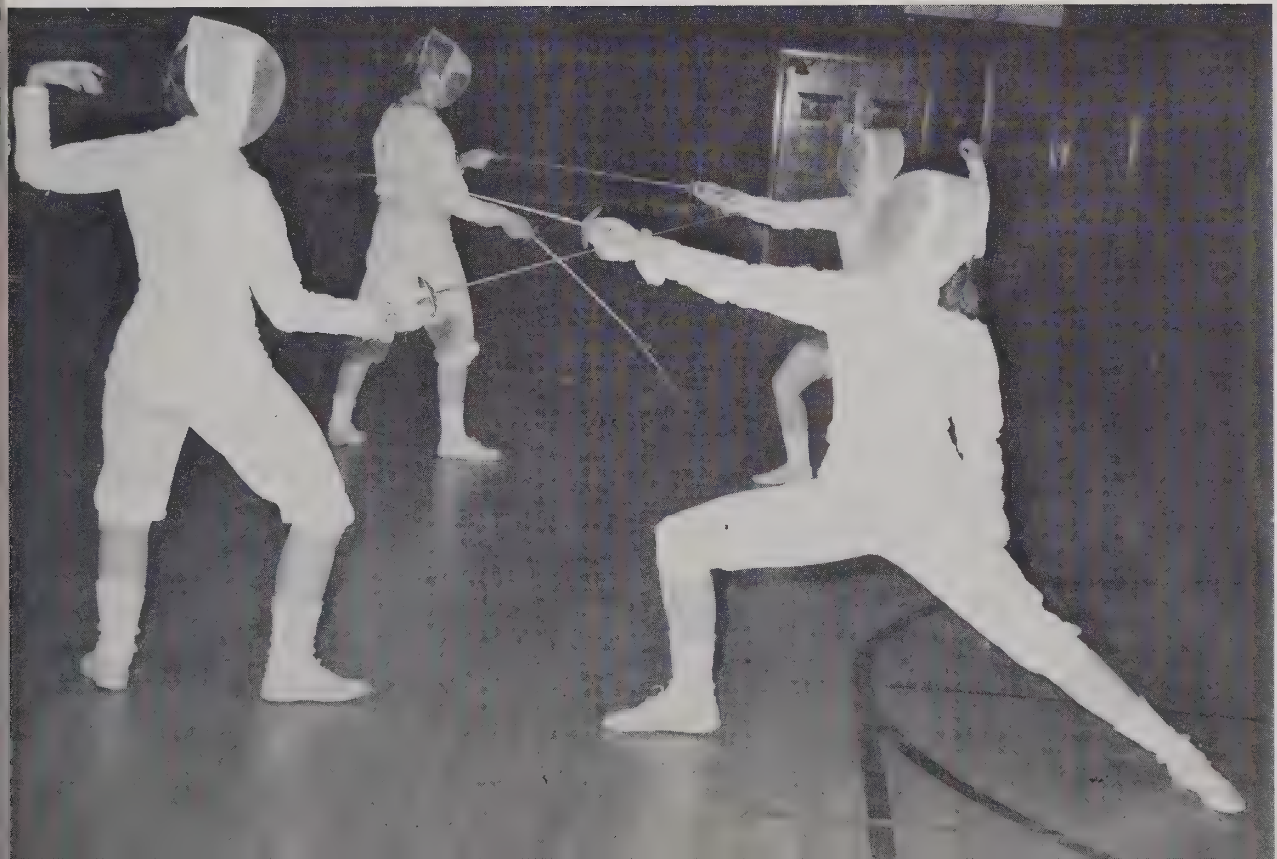
Executive Board

The Executive Board has the responsibility of planning the year's activities and coordinating these events.

Officers on the Rutherford campus were Lore Kech as President, Patricia Schiavino was Vice-president, Secretary was Pat Jury, and the Treasurer was Hazel Bryant. Mrs. Grace Cooper was advisor.

Dr. Harriet McCormick was advisor for the Teaneck group. Adele Ryan was President, Kay Crocco as Vice-President; Secretary was Marian Heinzmann, and Treasurer was Carol Crosby.

All Work, No Play Dulls Betty Coed



Sharing in friendships—meeting new friends is interesting exciting and different. A sense of belonging fills that need. Through their varied program which includes social, recreation and athletic functions. Every girl in the University is a member of the Association and can join any of its groups or activities.

Afternoon Activities

Frosh Came, Saw and Were Oriented

Spaghetti Dinner and Picnic

To welcome the brand new members into the Association and reacquaint the old members after a long summer, a spaghetti dinner was held in Teaneck and an outdoor picnic and barbecue was held in Rutherford. With gusto the year was begun. A spirit of camaraderie was prevalent as the girls made their plans for future activities. It was a time for fun and a time for nostalgia as the seniors realized they would graduate in a short time and miss greatly this organization which had given so much to them and to which they had given.

The Treat's on us

Two of the exciting events that take place annually at Fairleigh Dickinson are the Mother and Daughter and the Father and Daughter Dinners. These events give the students' parents an opportunity to view the social activities on campus.

The Father and Daughter Dinner held each year during the month of March consists of a fine dinner plus a Dance Contest and a Look-alike Contest.

The Mother and Daughter Dinner which is held in May is another well planned evening. Beside the dinner, the W.R.A. honors those students who have made outstanding contributions to the W.R.A. activities during the past school year.

Both these events prove exciting to both the students and their parents.

Cheerleaders

Behind our basketball team have been a group of selfless coeds . . . our cheering squad. In their traditional maroon and white garb, the girls are the finest example of school spirit and school leadership. They are the true spirit of the team, always cheering, always rooting and spurring on the Knights. When there was victory, sometimes they were forgotten. But in times of defeat they cheered up many a despondent player with their "we'll win the next one." These girls certainly deserve a salute for a job well done.

Business School

A high degree of specialization is offered to the students enrolled in the School of Business Administration.

In addition to offering courses in accounting, business law, economics, finance, government, management, and marketing, the School permits students to concentrate in various fields within each course division, such as industrial management, advertising, and hotel and restaurant management.

The School encourages the student toward a well-developed education, as well as recognizing his business interests.

VITO L. SALERNO, DAe. Eng.
Dean of the School of Engineering and Science

School of Engineering

Intensive training in the basic principles behind engineering practice is given to the students enrolled in the School of Engineering. The Bachelor of Science degree is awarded on the fields of civil, electrical, industrial, and mechanical engineering. Several laboratories as well as other facilities for practical training are available.

Theirs is a special type of education, for with the increasing interest in science, spurred by recent space accomplishments, they must be able to supply America's technological needs.

Arts & Sciences

Five "Worlds" are studies by the students in the School of Arts and Sciences.

The World Around Us—clarified by sciences

The World Behind Us—reviewed through history

The World Beyond Us—facilitated by the study of other languages, cultures and thoughts .

The World Within Us—brought to life by philosophy and psychology.

The World Above Us—continued in our spiritual experience.

The world has taken tremendous technological steps within recent years, harnessing the atom, repeatedly cracking the sound barrier and, more startling, placing a shaky toe on the doorstep of outer space.

But men of intelligence know the achievements are hollow victories if they are no more than triumphs of technology. Men of intelligence know the achievements are hollow victories if they are intended to benefit mankind, the accomplishments are worthless!

Dean of the Graduate School

Graduate School

The need for education further than a B. S. or B. A. was realized here a few years ago with the opening of the Graduate School.

The curricula includes Accounting, Business Management, Economics and Finance, English, History, and Psychology with Master of Business Administration and Master of Arts Degrees conferred.

The Graduate School is just another example of the growth, development and expansion policy of Fairleigh Dickinson University.

School of Education

Educator and author, William Lyons Phelps once said: "To my mind teaching is not merely a life's work, a profession, an occupation, a struggle; it is a passion. I love to teach."

Students of the School of Education share Phelps' love for teaching as they work toward their certification. Upon completion of the School's requirements, students receive that certification, that qualifies them to teach in public schools throughout the state.

Teaching interests are divided into two fields of study: elementary and secondary.

During their junior and senior years, students spend much time in the school room observing and doing actual practice teaching. They prepare themselves for the days ahead; the days when they will enter a classroom as teachers.

Dean of the School of Dentistry

Dental School

A bulwark of strength on a growing campus, the Fairleigh Dickinson Dental School has made great strides in its short life. This year, the school received accredidation before graduating its first class. Also, this year saw an advancement in curricula; graduate courses in Dentistry began. These new courses will help advance the theories and the techniques already under practice.

With the inauguration of the post-graduate program, the establishment of the new Dental Research Center and the acceptance of the fourth class of undergraduates in dentistry, the Dental School has, in a very short span of time established one of the outstanding centers of dental culture in the United States.
